Y. W. C. A. Drive Over the Top

Campaign of the Y. W. C. A. For Budget of $8,500 Goes Over Top By $600—Continue Campaign This Week for Building Fund.

Thursday night was jollification and glorification night at the Y. W. C. A. report supper for $600 more than the budget of $8,500 which was the campaign goal was reported as secured, or the splendid sum of over $9,100. So completely had the campaigners covered the territory assigned them by cards, that it was decided to open the campaign on a free-for-all basis this morning and for the remainder of the campaign which will close tomorrow night.

Now for Building Fund. From now on the workers will go out for additional sums for the building fund, but they are particularly anxious that the public should make no mistake as to what is meant by "Building." It does not mean the erection of a new structure, but a home for the Y. W. C. A., which might be secured by the purchase of an already erected building if suitable, quite as well as the creating of a structure. In its present headquarters the Y. W. C. A. is handicapped in many ways and a home of its own would remove many of these handicaps, and provide means of securing some revenue as well. In any event, the idea is to secure contributions to add to the present sum of $10,000 now drawing interest under the title of Y. W. C. A. Building Fund.

Having an inkling that they would "go over the top," the gathering opened last evening's session with an exceedingly hearty singing of the song.

The speaker of the evening was "The other Fowler," the judge, this time. And the judge quite took away the breath of his hearers when he said that he had heard that some one said on Wednesday night that he had heard not one word of adverse criticism of the Y. W. C. A. when he, himself, had a grievance against the Association. What was more, he was not the only one. Dr. Rice, Dr. Van Wagenen and the judge, according to the latter, had just formed a new organization, the initials being H. P. A.—Husbands' Protective Association. And then most appealingly did the judge tell of the hardships of his colleagues and himself and their neglected children—though the judge did not mention that those same children were quite old enough to take pretty good care of themselves—during the last month when "Mother" was not to be found at home and things were shaky because she was Y. W. C. A. Nor was that all. The judge's wife is the Y. W. C. A. treasurer, and it almost brought tears—it would be hard to say whether of sympathy or amusement—to the eyes to learn how the judge has been called upon to give up comforts of home to help capture a lost, strayed, but not stolen—nine cents that the Y. W. C. A. reckoned. Of course the nine cents were found, at no matter what cost to comfort, and in spite of all this Judge Fowler said he was still strong for the Y. W. C. A.

Then the judge gave a few reasons why the campaign has gone so strong. It had had the leadership of that able go-getter, Captain Fowler, who does things. The judge said his job was to look wise, and say whether things were right or wrong, but he felt that he could judge as to the "right or wrong" of several things, among them the Y. W. C. A. and that was dead right. Then the Kingston Y. W. C. A. has a secretary that knows how to put a campaign over and does not have to go to New York or National Headquarters for help and had shown especial ability in getting together a couple of hundred of the best looking girls of the city to go out after funds. It is not just a big club of girls banded together for their own pleasure, but a body of women interested in other girls and women working for each other in a splendid way. It is an important and distinct work in the community and Judge Fowler said he was sure the work would not stop with the securing of the budget but would go on until the girls had a body of their own and be wished them "Good Speed."

Captain Fowler said his heart was too full for words, and he wanted the girls to realize what the people of Kingston think of them as they would when they heard the evening's report. The people who live in Kingston, the people who are Kingston business people are the ones who have supported this campaign and they will see to it that the Y. W. C. A. girls have their money for home. Just because they would make their budget, Captain Fowler said they were not to lose their enthusiasm, but were to work with continued energy the remainder of the week to make that building fund just as big as possible, and indeed by their vigilance, they will. There will be the usual report supper tonight and tomorrow night, and who knows but they may be the most thrilling nights of the campaign, so all workers are asked to be present. ## RICH TREASURES BELIEVED BURIED IN ANCIENT RUIN

Discovery of Egyptian Valley of Kings Gives Rise to Wild Fancies of Wealth.

Rome.—Treasure which will rival the ancient hoard discovered in the Egyptian Valley of Kings is expected to be uncovered during the excavation of a vast burial ground of the ancients near Rome.

This necropolis covers 700 acres. Already funeral implements, bronze figures, clay vases and children's toys have been found among the disturbed debris of centuries-old civilization. Only seven acres of the vast burying ground have been investigated. In ancient times the necropolis covered 700 acres, near Carere, one of the twelve great cities of Etruscan in olden times.

For eight successive centuries the inhabitants of a neighboring city whose name has not been learned, were buried in the necropolis which now is the site of a small village about twenty-seven miles from Rome. Archaeologists are convinced that the tombs of the nameless city's wealthy citizens secrete priceless gold and silver objects which will rival the marvelous finds in King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb at Luxor.

Samples of the type of treasure believed to be buried in the tremendous necropolis already are displayed in the Vatican museum. There probably will be Greek vases, ornamental terra cottas and bronze weapons.

During recent excavations ten tombs have been explored. The vast extent of the burial ground—the largest in Etruria—makes rapid work impossible. Egyptian excavators, once they discover the passageway leading to a tomb, are able to direct all their labors toward entering a nest of variously proportioned chambers which connect with each other, but the necropolis at Carere spreads over so much territory and so few records exist concerning it that long weeks of digging may be necessary before the workers discover which portion of the necropolis was reserved for persons of wealth.

The mere discovery of tombs means little enough as the hundreds of thousands of burials which must have taken place in the necropolis during the 800 years it served its gruesome purpose have seeded the land with bones. There is no suggestion that a new civilization will be revealed, however, as examples of the handwork of the period already have been discovered elsewhere.

Airplanes Are Used to Chart Mississippi River

Washington.—That adage "There's nothing new under the sun," has been disproved by Col. E. Lester Jones, chief of the United States coast and geodetic survey, under whose direction charts of the great delta of the Mississippi river have just been made from photographs taken while flying over this region.

Heretofore engineers have done this work at a great expense of time and physical misery, by wading about these fever-infested places, battling mosquitoes and the deadly moccasin snake. Often they have worked all day in water up to the hips and camped at night in a dank, clammy flat.

But—enter the airplane, and the scene is changed. The marshes and swamps become no more than small puddles crossed via "the highway of the air." Flying at 10,000 feet above the delta, photographs were taken every five seconds. The control point was first snapped and then the photographs taken so that they overlapped each other. There was no chance for possible error; every outline was perfect.

The navy furnished the planes and flyers and the coast survey has done the rest. The time consumed was a little over thirty hours of actual flying, as against months of labor that the same work with a plane would have necessitated. In this time an area of 500 square miles was charted. Details were obtained that would have been possible in no other way.

Chart making from the air opens up an entirely new subject and is an ideal method, Colonel Joyce says.

Freight in 2 Months 70,560,495,000 Tons

Washington.—The volume of freight carried by the railroads during the first two months of this year was shown as the greatest ever recorded for that period in reports filed by the carriers with the bureau of railway economics.

The total of 70,560,495,000 net ton miles was an increase of two-tenths of 1 per cent over that for the corresponding period in 1924, which marked the previous high record. For February alone, however, which showed a total of 38,532,290,000 net ton miles there was a decrease of 6.7 per cent from last year. For the two-month period, the western district showed an increase of 1.6 per cent, while the eastern and southern districts showed slight decreases.

Paris Favors Mannish Coat of London Style

The rance of Pudukkottai is the arbor of the craze for mannish coats now sweeping the Riviera and Paris. A coat worn by the Rance of Pudukkottai recently at Cannes was designed by one of the most famous men's tailors in London.

A great many smart American and French women who set the styles in French capitals are sending to London to have the new mannish coat made according to men's fashion.

The colors most in favor appear to be the natural beige, the tans and the silvers, and the materials are Scotch wercrotings in homespun and check-backs, and covers and gabardines.

The coat worn by the Rance and which created something of a furor on the Riviera was a double-breasted three-button (two to button) coat with mannish labels and pockets. The tube effect of the coat was maintained by omitting the vent in the back.

Another similar model has two buttons and is ventless, but has welt pockets instead of flaps.

A third very popular type of the two-button double-breasted strictly tailored coat has the fan vent, which lends a little dressy touch, but doesn't flare open as the wearer walks.

Traffic Signal Test Saturday

The new automatic traffic signal at the junction of Wall and North Front streets was placed in operation Thursday and met with fair success. Officer Van Buren, who was stationed at the corner to observe the effects of the signal on traffic, was kept busy regulating traffic and explaining to passing travelers what the signal was intended for. Many apparently did not know that the red signal was to stop and the green was for clear traffic. Considerable confusion was due apparently to many not seeing the signal light which is suspended high in the air. Many persons complained that it was impossible to see the light from closed cars equipped with sun visors unless the driver knew of the signal and made a special effort by leaning forward on approaching the corner. The real test of its efficiency at this particular corner will be Saturday, when traffic is heavy. A similar signal at the entrance to the Rondout creek bridge has been a decided success. At North Front and Wall streets there is three way traffic and both trolley lines pass, adding to the confusion.

Miracle Is Seen in Recovery of Cripple

Lowell, Mass.—The miracle of the Sacred Heart was seen in the recovery of Miss Alma A. Gellman, sixteen years old, for five years a cripple.
Mrs. Caesar Gellman of Lowell was bathing her daughter when she noticed a flame-colored spot on the little invalid's foot. As the mother watched the spot spread, it became the size of a half-dollar. Then, the mother said, the spot assumed the shape of a heart.
Since its appearance the girl has shown steady improvement, although physicians said she was doomed to die.
"God has performed a miracle on my niece," said Mrs. Arthur Roderique, the girl's aunt.

"MAN OF MYSTERY" KEEPS HIS SECRET

Dies Without Disclosing His Name or Past Life.

Kansas City, Mo.—"Doctor Kinsey" never will go home to the family that somewhere has been waiting anxiously for six years for his return. The General hospital patient, who for six years has been Kansas City's "man of mystery," was buried, carrying with him to the grave the secret of his life and name.
Since the night of May 7, 1919, Kansas City has puzzled over the identity of "Doctor Kinsey."
That night, the General hospital ambulance received a call to a Salvation Army station in the slum district of the city. An elderly man in evening clothes, including high silk hat, who was immaculately groomed, staggered into the station in a dazed condition. At first he was thought to be intoxicated, but at the hospital, shortly after he regained consciousness, he suffered a paralytic stroke.
In his few moments of consciousness he told his nurse that his name was "Doctor Kinsey." He mumbled repeatedly about "going home," and then lapsed into silence. The paralytic stroke left him speechless as well as helpless. He never even seemed to regain his reason. Repeated efforts to communicate with him failed.

Tommy, 13, Robbed, Turns Sleuth, Gets Man

New York.—Tommy Reid is thirteen years old and he's never had much spending money, because whatever he earned selling papers was needed for the support of his widowed mother. But now and then he blew himself to a motion-picture show, and there he learned the motto of the Northwest mounted police—"Get your man."
As a result Philip Huston, thirty-three years old, Brooklyn, began serving an indeterminate sentence in the penitentiary.
When his father died Tommy began selling papers at Thirty-fourth street and Broadway. The pennies went to help his mother.
Two years ago a man asked Tommy if he would like to earn $5. Tommy's capital at that time was $4, and he eagerly accepted it. The stranger told him to go to an address a few blocks away and collect $72. To "guarantee" Tommy's return, the man had the newsboy leave the $4 with him. Of course, when Tommy reached the place where he was to collect the money there was no money to be collected. And, of course, when Tommy got back to his stand the stranger had departed.
Tommy spotted him peddling candy in Fourteenth street. Tommy sought a policeman. Huston was arrested and the records showed he had been convicted on the same charge before.

21,000 Acres Added to White Mountain Forest

Washington.—Addition of 21,000 acres to the White Mountain National Forest in New Hampshire was announced by the National Forest Reservation commission. The purchase increased that government-owned area within the forest to 662,200 acres, representing an investment of $2,270,000. By later acquisitions it is planned to expand the forest to 900,000 acres.
Purchase of the 21,000 acres added to the government timber reserve, 38,000,000 feet of softwood and more than 25,000,000 feet of hardwood, and the area is expected to produce annually 7,000 cords of softwood and 2,000,000 feet of hardwood. The total stand of timber in the forest is estimated to be nearly one billion board feet of merchantable stock, of which more than half is softwood suitable for making print paper.

Counterfeiting Is Lost Art in United States

Philadelphia.—Counterfeiting is now almost a lost art, declared Capt. W. H. H. Houghton, chief of the United States secret service here, commenting upon the scarcity of "bobbies" money being pushed across state borders.
Captain Houghton said the absence of well-known counterfeiters and more elaborate schemes for the variety of operations.
Hundreds of complaints to the secret service bureau were reported in former years, he said.
The absence of money-makers, he said, was due to their presence in various federal penitentiaries.

TIMELY WARNING TO CARELESS MOTORIST

Above is shown an impressive sign, the purpose of which is to warn reckless motorists, and which has been placed at the head of St. Charles avenue, the main thoroughfare in New Orleans. The daily toll of killed and injured by auto is registered on the sign.

JAYWALKER WILL CAUSE TROUBLE

His One Ambition in Life Seems to Be a Desire to Be Run Over.

No law-abiding citizen can drive an automobile for more than a week without introduction to the Jaywalker. He may step unexpectedly into the path of your car from nowhere; he may be crossing the street aimlessly in a trance; or he may stop suddenly in the midst of traffic to adjust a shoe-lace. His one ambition in life is to be run over violently and you are bound to meet him eventually.

Then the steering wheel will be thrown wildly to one side, plunging nearby cars into dangerous confusion and narrowly missing the Jaywalker who usually skips away with a merry "Ha, Ha," indicating his jocular interpretation of the incident.

Cause of Trouble. If, by any chance, the Jaywalker outwits the driver and manages to get plastered all over the pavement, there is trouble at hand. Both parties have an equal right to the street in the eyes of the law and romantic bandages have a far greater sympathetic appeal to the court than the common-sense, but intact, appearance of the car owner—the comparison is seldom representative of the circumstances attending the accident. Cases are on record where His Honor did not award damages to the Jaywalker, but they are few and far between. In other words, if your car collides forcibly with a member of this peculiar species, it is liable to cause plenty of trouble and cost perfectly good money.

Eternal Vigilance. Now, having come to the conclusion that the motorist is better off if he does not hit the Jaywalker, what is to be done about it? Unfortunately there is no other remedy than eternal vigilance. Even on a country road, deserted save for one lone pedestrian, be careful. He may be a Jaywalker who will stoop in front of your car to pluck a daisy just as you draw abreast of him.

Until all persons with these irritating tendencies are tied to the sidewalks, surrounded by a twelve-foot fence or hung, the Jaywalker will haunt us. Expect him—outwit him—refuse to kill him—thus keeping out of trouble and the courts by bearing the entire burden yourself, unfair as it may seem.

Plan to Save Gasoline Is Told by an Engineer. About ninety-nine drivers out of a hundred are wasteful of gasoline, according to an engineer, who cites a number of ways the fuel may be conserved, both for the general good and as a matter of economy for the owner. Here they are:

Carburetor adjustment is of prime importance. A mixture that is too rich or too lean will cause more gasoline to be used in performing a given amount of labor than a correct mixture. But don't attempt to adjust your carburetor unless you know how. Most cars have what may be termed a "lean" mixture. It ranges from twelve to twenty miles per hour. When you get above that speed, the amount of gas used per mile increases.

Anticipate slowing up and stops. Close the throttle and disengage the clutch far enough ahead of the place you want to stop so that very little use of the brake will be necessary. Whenever you use the brakes you destroy the momentum that has required gasoline to create.

Accelerate gradually. It takes less gas to do that than to reach a fast pace quickly.

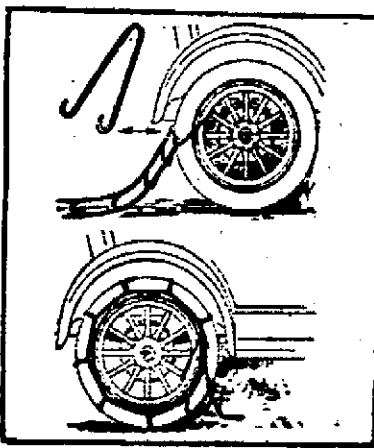

Whenever you allow the engine to run with the car standing, you are using up gas that doesn't make any showing on your odometer.

Display of Tags

One tag shall be on the front and the other on the rear of the car. The tags shall at all times be parallel to the axle. Both tags must be rigidly attached, so as not to swing or oscillate. The lower edge of the rear plate shall be at least fifteen inches above the ground. They shall not be covered, obscured, bent, altered or defaced in any manner. They shall be kept free from oil, grease, dirt or other substance likely to impair legibility. The rear tags shall not be underneath any part of the body more than twelve inches from the rear end. This provision has particular reference to trucks. The rear tags shall be illuminated between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise, so that the registration number can be plainly distinguished.

Hook for Applying Auto Chains Very Convenient

Auto chains can readily be applied with a hook of the kind shown in the illustration. The hook is made from a length of steel rod, bent as indicated. In use, it is placed over one of the wheel spokes and the second link of the chain are slipped over the bent ends, so that when the car is driven forward, the chain is pulled on the tire. Where the chain comes in contact with the road directly under the tire, the cross links retard the movement, while the hook pulls the chain taut. The first links are then fastened to the opposite ends of the chain, or if this is too loose, the second links are used after the hook has been removed. Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Help Reduce Accidents by Driving Carefully

You will help reduce accidents if you:

- Don't cut corners.
- Give the proper signal whenever your action in starting from the curb, in turning, in changing your course or in stopping may reasonably be said to affect other traffic.
- Don't consider driving at maximum speed within the law—the legal speed is a safe speed at all times.
- Don't turn except at corners in business districts and clear, built-up sections.
- Don't pass street cars discharging passengers.
- Don't attempt to pass a vehicle if there is another vehicle approaching from the opposite direction unless the road is clear for one hundred yards.
- Don't drive your car out of the garage without knowing your brakes and steering gear are tight and your headlights comply with the law.
- Slow down when you observe children playing near the curb or in the street. Remember they have not the wisdom of an adult.
- Don't drive with the belief that the pedestrian is familiar with road rules.

Color Blindness

It is said that males are more likely to be color-blind than females (16 to 1). Only one woman in 400 is color-blind. The reason for this is partly, at least, that the development of the gray-producing substance is favored by practice and color education.

City's Dwellings All Built on Log Rafts

One of the oddest cities in the world is Shoun Sound on the coast of British Columbia. The entire place is built up of floating dwellings. The dwellings in that section is long and about the work is done on the sides of steep cliffs where it is almost impossible to build a house. Then, too, the loggers are continually moving to new sites. So they solve their housing problem by building floating dwellings of cedar shingles, similar to shingles only about twice the size and rougher on log raft. The loggers live in these raft houses for many years, towing their houses to new sites as logging.

prising logger told his raft house up at the place called Shoun Sound. As the anchorage was good and the location was sheltered from wind gales, he started a store. Gradually other floating dwellings were added until now steamships make regular calls to the port and the government has established a post office there. The main street of this floating city has all been constructed and considerable city building has been done. Flowers have been planted along the way in old cans and the storekeeper has a garden in an earth-filled boat. In the winter many new floating houses are added to the city, but they float away again when the loggers go back to logging with the return of good weather.—Pittsburgh Courier.

TO MAKE GOLD FROM MOUNTAIN

German Chemist in New York Asserts He Has Found Secret.

Gloversville, N. Y.—Stirred by the statements of a fat little German chemist, who asserts that he has found the secret that eluded the medieval alchemists, conservative business men of Gloversville and villages in the foothills of the Adirondacks are investing thousands of dollars in his project to extract gold from ores heretofore considered worthless.

The gold fever of the 40ers was hardly more virulent than that which has gripped farmers and other land holders in the vicinity of Pinnacle mountain, Fulton county. Although government experts have reported that the ore from this section assays but a trace of gold, the scientist, Richard Rodrian, declares he has succeeded in taking the precious metal in a pure state from it at the rate of $800 a ton. Claims $3,000 per Ton.

In some instances, he maintains, he has extracted the gold in lots running as high as $3,000 to the ton. This contrasts favorably, he points out, with the usual $8 or $12 which the present mining companies are able to take from each ton of ore.

The gold boom began two years ago when Silas F. Horning and Joseph A. Ross, announcing they were prospectors from Albany, discovered that Pinnacle mountain held untold millions ready for mining experts to extract.

While Ross and Horning, in the manner of Alaskan pioneers, staked out claims on the mountain side, the Rodrian Electro-Metallurgical company, a corporation with an authorized capital of $10,000,000, was formed in New York. The prospectus issued at the time stated that profits of $175,000,000 might reasonably be expected in the first year of operation.

Almost simultaneously Supreme Court Justice O'Malley, on application of the district attorney, granted an injunction restraining the concern from selling its stock and the government reported that Pinnacle mountain was not, and probably never would be, a profitable mining section.

Then Ross and Horning, hearing of Rodrian's process, formed a combination with him and interested residents of the section in their project to make millions from mere dross. The backers of the trio, most of them hard-headed business men, say that only reasonable amounts of money have been raised—sufficient to cover the expenses of Rodrian's experiments—and that no effort has been made to sell large blocks of stock.

Rodrian is confident, he says, that billions are to be made. But he does not intend to be greedy.

"There will be more money for the people and the international money situation will speedily standardize itself," he declared. "We will not disrupt the present financial structure."

Guards Secret Formula.

He admitted that he might sell a little of his stock if pressed to do so. However, he will consider no offer—it one should be made him—by the mining corporations for his patents and his secret formula.

"They never give a square deal to the poor inventor," was his explanation. "If they want me to refine their ores and get all the gold out they must send it to me."

The price of the stock, Rodrian declared, is now $1 a share. In two weeks it will be $2 a share, and in a few weeks more will see it at $5. The doubters in Gloversville point out that this has a familiar ring and the chamber of commerce has issued warnings against buying stock in gold mines in this region.

Restores Rust of Ancient Bronzes to Original Form

New York—Ancient bronzes which the years have turned into lumps of rust are being restored to their original beauty in the electro-chemical laboratory in the school of mines, Columbia university, through a process developed by Prof. Colin G. Fink, which reverses the action of time and converts rust into metal.

The method restores the shape of rusted objects, brings out the original details and exposes fake antiquities. Twelve Egyptian, Etruscan and other types of bronzes are undergoing the treatment. The method was worked out by Doctor Fink at the suggestion of Director Edward Robinson of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, who turned over to the scientist bronzes so rusted their identity was lost. More than 600 objects of bronze, silver and alloys have been successfully treated.

The process is an application of well-known electro-chemical principles. Faint electrical currents operating for centuries turn the metal into rust. By subjecting the corroded objects to a stronger electrical current of the opposite polarity this effect is reversed and shapes and designs emerge from the formless rust.

Ancient Candlestick

Quincy, Mass.—One of the original candlesticks brought to America in 1623 by Gov. John Endicott, head of the Massachusetts colony, has been located here. It is the property of Mrs. Charles May, who said it was purchased from descendants of Rev. Nathaniel Ward of Ipswich, Mass., in whom Governor Endicott gave the candlestick.

POPULARITY OF DOLLAR BILL IS WORRY OF U. S.

May Have to Expand Capacity of Printing Plant to Meet the Demand.

Washington.—The rapidly growing popularity of the dollar bill has become a problem to treasury officials. The government is faced with the necessity of either greatly expanding the capacity of its printing plant to meet the public demand for circulation of the unit of paper currency or inducing the public to be more economical in its use.

Just why there is such a demand for the dollar bill that its circulation has increased more than seven times since 1900 and exactly three times since 1910 is a puzzle which Assistant Secretary Dewey has started out to solve. He hopes by the study to find means of obtaining a more sparing use of it.

The big plant of the bureau of engraving and printing, built in 1914 with the expectation that it would meet the nation's paper money production needs indefinitely, was forced in March to deliver to the United States treasury $7,824,000 $1 bills to keep up with the public demand of them. To visualize the bulk of this job, the bills weighed approximately 113,472 pounds.

One of the chief difficulties is that the capacity of the plant is so pressed by the demand that the bills have to be put in circulation as "green" money, fresh from the press and without opportunity to cure so they will stand the rough usage they get. Just now the average life of the bills being put in circulation is only about four months, although treasury officials have been endeavoring to increase that span ever since the war.

The treasury has tried to meet the problem and give the big engraving bureau time to catch its breath and store up a few million bills for the curing process by restoring the silver dollar to popularity, but thus far the public has frowned on the cart wheel.

Efforts to restore it to circulation in any substantial volume have been fruitless. It is estimated that if 40,000,000 silver dollars could be placed in circulation the saving in paper money would run into thousands of dollars annually.

Divorce Rate in America Near Double in 30 Years

New York.—The divorce rate has doubled in the United States in less than thirty years. Today about 13 per cent of all marriages are sooner or later annulled by divorce. In other words one couple in every seven bound in marriage effects a separation. At the present rate of increase the next generation will have a divorce rate of about 27 per cent, and in the following generation the chances of remaining married will be about fifty fifty.

In the United States there are about 1,250,000 marriages a year. The total number of divorces for all causes is about 170,000 a year.

The census tables recording divorces according to states are full of surprises. New York leads the states in marriages, but the New York divorce rate is comparatively low, partly because many residents of New York go to other states to obtain divorces.

In Texas the divorce rate is about 20 per cent of all marriages. Nevada has more divorces than marriages. The total, about 1,000, is much smaller, however, than is commonly supposed. In view of the fame of Reno's divorce colony.

The divorce rate is often said to be very high in Chicago, but the divorces in the state of Illinois are but 15 per cent of the marriages. In Indiana the divorce rate is 18 per cent, and in Ohio more than 20 per cent.

Dutch Watch Communist Propaganda in India

The Hague.—People in Holland are paying a good deal of attention just now to reports of Communist activities in their eastern possessions.

The latest news from the colonies is to the effect that closer supervision has been ordered throughout the East Indian archipelago over all political gatherings, which no young persons under eighteen years of age are allowed to attend, eighteen being considered a ripe age, politically, in the tropics.

M. S. De Graaf, the Dutch minister of colonies, seems, however, to view the position without alarm. In a memorial to the chamber on the colonial budget he deprecated reports that the native masses are discontented. Whatever restrictive action has been taken, he explained, was not aimed at the suppression of Communism as a creed, but solely in the interests of the preservation of law and order.

Eastern Communism, the minister added, was a problem by itself and could not be judged by European standards. He was satisfied that natives who called themselves Communists knew really little or nothing of Communist doctrine. Incitement to revolution would, of course, not be tolerated, the minister declared.

Memory Expert Forgets

Los Angeles, Cal.—Charles W. Harny, "memory expert," traveled about the country telling others how to remember telephone numbers and appointments. But his wife recalled in divorce proceedings he forgot her name and the party started. She had to telephone relatives for money, also said. The divorce was granted.

COLOR SHADOW FLOOD LIGHTING THE LATEST

In a dozen cities east and west across the land, a new type of flood-lighting has come into its own. It is termed color shadow lighting, which, according to illuminating engineers, constitutes a new school of technical treatment in itself. It dates back to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition of 1915. W. D. Arce Ryan, engineer of the General Electric Illuminating Engineering Laboratory, who planned the lighting of that great exposition, conceived the idea of throwing a great flood of white light on the exteriors of the building, bringing out the shadows in colonnades, windows, towers and elsewhere, and then illuminating the shadows with soft colors.

The effect was magical. Persons with imagination who saw that spectacle will never forget it. And after a time illuminating engineers realized the captivating possibilities of treating monumental structures and tall business edifices in this manner. Thus, ten years later, color shadow lighting is now accepted by many architects as a desirable thing. The result has been, within the last two or three years, that wonderfully rich examples of such lighting have made their appearance in New York, Chicago and other cities.

Almost the first building to be treated in this manner, a long, vista-like structure with many tall columns supporting the roof, has been made into a spectacle at night which leaves an indelible impression upon the beholder. The illumination employed reveals a long succession of pure white columns, a veritable Greek colonnade, shimmering against a mystical background produced by pools of color which begin, at the bottom, with midnight blue, and pass through a delicate succession of changes, violets, purples and magentas, into deep, rich crimson at the top.

Other equally distinctive effects are produced with this same building, while plans for lighting several notable new structures in both New York and Chicago promise new and alluring achievements which will stamp these buildings upon the imagination like the personality of a charming individual.

State Census Essay Contest

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 8.—Boys and girls throughout New York state will not only take a greater interest in the state census which will be taken between June 1 and 15, by reason of cash prizes offered by Florence E. S. Knapp, secretary of state, for the best essays submitted on "The purpose and value of an accurate state census," but their parents will also be interested in the outcome of the contest. It is the first of its kind in the history of the state. Mrs. Knapp is cooperating with the State Department of Education, and school superintendents and principals throughout the state will be advised at once as to the rules governing the contest.

The contest will be open to three classes of pupils. Class 1 will consist of pupils in the seventh and eighth grades, and their essays must be limited to 100 words. Class 2 consists of pupils in third and fourth year high school classes, and essays from such must not exceed 500 words. Class 3 includes all pupils registered in any continuation school, and essays from such must not exceed 400 words. The contest closes June 1, and all essays should be handed to the principal or teacher, who in turn will submit the best to the Census Contest Committee.

There will be three prizes of $50 each to the statewide winners in each of the classes. In addition to these prizes, there will be fifty prizes of $5 each for the best essay submitted in each county by pupils in Class 1 and Class 2.

There will be fifty prizes of $5 each for the best essay submitted in each county by pupils in Class 2. In New York city, five dollar prizes will be awarded on the basis of the different subdivisions of the school system in charge of district superintendents. There will be twenty-four prizes of $5 given to the best essays submitted by New York city school children in Class 1 and 2, and the same number of similar prizes for the best essays submitted in New York city from pupils in Class 3. The awards will be announced by Mrs. Knapp not later than June 15.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

SLOWING DOWN

WHEN we of normal health and strength begin to proceed more slowly than is our wont, put off attending to our customary duties and neglect to fill each day with a full day's work, the inference is that we are taking a step on the downward path.

Pleasant as these steps are in the beginning, they soon become the cause of untold sorrows, from which in later life it is frequently impossible to escape.

A musician who fails to practice daily soon loses his dexterity. His mind becomes sluggish, his fingers clumsy and his eyes less alert.

So it is in any other profession or in craftsmanship. The man or woman who shows signs of slowing down is making the first step toward going down. In a little while this is observed in changed attitudes of thought and action. The world is seen from a new viewpoint. Any effort to recover lost ground is fatiguing.

There is no more delight in the old chase, no joyous inspiration in seeking to excel our own best efforts.

We have become inert and indifferent. To make an unusual gesture is wearisome to the flesh. To lure from its lair some great idea which shall set the world agog is impossible, for we are descending to the lowlands where resourcefulness has perished and hope lies buried beyond our reach.

As compared with eternity, life is but an existence of a moment, but it is our duty to make the best of it by being always active in climbing the high hills, which take us a little nearer the heavens.

To keep going, to continue to press toward the heights ought to be our chief compelling purpose.

It is better to wear the rags of honor than to be found among the faithless who have turned their eyes from the hilltops and lost their way.

Even if at the end we can show only one soul we have influenced for good, we shall be remembered and blessed.

And when we close our eyes in the final sleep we shall have the sweet consciousness of having never turned back, having never lost our faith nor hesitated in the doing of our duties as we understood them, though at times the paths were hard and our hearts were troubled with doubts and fears.

Report on D. A. R. Congress

The May meeting of Witwycik Chapter, D. A. R., was held on Thursday afternoon at the chapter house and was devoted to reports from the recent continental congress held in Washington, D. C., at the New Washington Auditorium because the organization had entirely outgrown its own headquarters. The local chapter was represented at Washington by the regent, Mrs. Henry Van Hoevenberg, and Mrs. D. Lewis, delegate, and by Mrs. Hewitt Boice, Mrs. Harry Edson, Mrs. Walter Gill and Miss Juliana Wood as alternates. It seemed to be a matter of note that all speakers at the congress paid the highest possible tribute to American womanhood. Mrs. Gill told interestingly of her visit to Mount Vernon, and Mrs. Hewitt Boice gave an exceedingly vivid and enjoyable report of the various delightful social functions participated in by the D. A. R. members while in Washington, especially the reception by President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge. As delegate to the congress, Mrs. T. D. Lewis gave a comprehensive and valuable report of the doings of that congress, the addresses, etc., of which the following is a brief sketch:

Officially welcomed by president of board of commissioners, D. C. Greetings from "S. A. R." the "S. R." and the American Legion, each paying the D. A. R. the highest tributes. Organized in 1890—that year showed four chapters and 390 members nearly 35 years of age. We now have 2,061 chapters and number 149,786, having chapters in China, Hawaii, Cuba, Philippines, France, India and Alaska—nearly encircling the world—increasing at the rate of 1,000 a month. The largest women's organization in the world, banded together for patriotic, benevolent, humane and social usefulness. Addressed by the president of United States, Calvin Coolidge, who was accompanied by his wife. Addressed by Emile M. Dueschne, bringing us greetings from France, thanking us for having restored the devastated village of Tillioy and saved 3,000 fatherless children of France—"for this France will never forget you—you have earned our everlasting gratitude." Addressed by the Hon. Nicholas Longworth, speaker of house of representatives. Mr. Longworth said he felt no greater honor could be conferred on him than to be asked to address the D. A. R. "You practice what you preach." He declared the laws restricting immigration had his heartiest support. He voiced the same expression as had our president general, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cooke, that "all unloyal ones be shipped back to the country from whence they came." Mrs. Cooke in referring to the privilege we D. A. R. have of tracing our lineage in unbroken line of descent from our patriot forebears, said "their valiant deeds will not profit us much if we are not making our own lives worthy with accomplishment." The "loving cup" which the National Society, D. A. R., has given annually to the midshipman excelling in seamanship (at time of his graduation) will from now on be replaced by a gold-mounted dress sword. Every officer has heretofore been obliged to provide himself with a sword as part of his equipment.

Solicitor General Hon. James U. Beck quoted from George Washington and Benjamin Franklin as having advanced the same ideas as had Austro 2,000 years ago relative to the laws governing a nation, and then he added: "The best law will be of no avail unless the young are trained in the spirit of the constitution." Judge Harry F. Atwood, president Constitutional Anniversary Association, addressed us on the "Constitution of the United States," the "greatest piece of work ever struck off by the brain of man." It took four months to write the Constitution. The men who wrote it realized their need and implored Divine Guidance. In less than five years after it was signed our country emerged from its despair to tranquility and progress. "We were a peace-minded nation until after the Constitution had been signed. Some say we are living under different conditions today." To this Judge Atwood said: "There has never been found necessity for changing our alphabet; no necessity for changing our system of notation; no necessity for changing our scale of music; nor for changing the clock at a timepiece. Judge Atwood called those who were meddling with the Constitution "self-appointed advance thinkers." Judge Atwood recommended reading "The Federalist" (published 1787 years ago). (Judge Atwood has himself compiled three books on the "Constitution" published by "Laird & Lee," Chicago.) Judge Atwood recommended National Orationals contests on "The Constitution." Last year 600,000 pupils prepared papers. This year 1,400,000 are preparing papers on Constitution. He urged the study of it—"to pass it on unimpaired"—"if we continue to drift as we are now doing, we'll go the way of other nations."

Brigadier General Dana, assistant chief of staff under General Pershing, presented "The System and Connection of Citizens Military Training Camps." He urged the "training of the American youth," "safeguard American ideals." "There are 40 training camps distributed over U. S. where during one of the summer months youths are taught the "ideals of defense" and also physical development and hygiene. This year there are 40,000 applicants, one of them the son of the president of U. S.—John Coolidge.

Plans were submitted for a new auditorium to be sufficiently large to seat the growing membership (for rather the respective bodies of this membership. We already possess the largest Memorial Hall in the world ever built by women. Plans were now accepted whereby a building and its furnishings will cost approximately $2,000,000. Great enthusiasm prevailed when the vote was taken showing it was favored and nearly $100,000 was subscribed. It is to be built in Colonial design and of white marble—a building worthy of its place in this city of fine buildings.

Before Congress adjourned Secretary of Labor Davis came before us making an appeal for registration of all aliens. He said aliens were being smuggled in and prices paid from $250 and $750 each for Orientals and sometimes as high as $5,000 was paid for Oriental girls.

The D. A. R. endorsed the plan of Secretary Davis to "compel registration of aliens" and recommended a definite and intensive campaign to combat the danger of "Communist revolution in America" and the "Red revolution."

The conference closed with a huge banquet—a variable feast—a "thank-offering" so to speak, at the launching forth of the proposed feature of the present administration under the leadership of Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cooke viz the building of the new D. A. R. Auditorium.

Son Kidnaper?

MRS. JENNIE W. STURTEVANT

Mrs. Jennie Woodward Sturtevant, of Brockton, Mass., started Vermont authorities by declaring that Earl Woodward, captured kidnaper of Lucille Chatterton, 11, of Granville, Vt., is her long lost son.

Made Use of Physical Deformity for Profit

There is at Ripon, in Yorkshire, England, an old hostelry, the Unicorn, at which is preserved an etching of a character who once was "boots" there. "Old Boots," as he was familiarly known to many who never knew him by any other title, flourished from about the middle of the eighteenth century, and now lies somewhere in the yard of Ripon minister. He was endowed by nature with a nose and chin so inordinately long and so tending to embrace each other that at length he acquired the power of holding a piece of money between them. Thus he was able to turn his deformity to commercial account.

It was a part of his duty to wait upon travelers arriving at the inn, to assist them in removing their boots; and he usually introduced himself carrying a pair of slippers in one hand and a bootjack in the other, and we are told that the company generally were so diverted by his appearance that frequently they would give him a piece of money on condition that he held it between his nose and chin.

Other times, other tastes, and it seems hardly possible that modern travelers would lend themselves to such an exhibition.

Wampum Accepted as Currency by Indians

The ruins of an early wampum mint with its ingenious machinery and many examples of its coinage have been unearthed in Bergen county, New Jersey, within a few miles of New York. Francis Collins writes in the New York Herald and Tribune. From the earliest days the white settlers manufactured Indian money, but in the New Jersey mint they introduced methods of high finance with surprising effects upon the native currency.

Labor-saving machinery was operated by water power for turning out wampum wholesale. It was freely accepted by the Indians throughout the country, who refused to use the counterfeit wampum, however cleverly imitated with glass or composition. One of the proprietors of the old wampum mint claimed that the first John Jacob Astor laid the foundation of his great fortune by buying this wampum and exchanging it with the Indians for furs.

"Fishing" Made Easy

An ideal stream for the lazy or impatient fisherman, who craves amusement rather than the thrill of the catch, has been discovered by Interior department engineers in the Inconceivable, turbid San Juan river, one of the main tributaries of the Colorado in Utah. The swiftly flowing San Juan, called Pahsiman (mad water) by the Navajo Indians who live nearby, never gets clear and sometimes it carries three times as much silt as water. At times the river runs with a smooth, oily movement like that of molten metal, so red and viscous is it with silt. At such times the fish become exhausted and flounder on the surface. Their dorsal fins projecting into the air, the fishermen need only to aim

Below: WILLIAM GREEN. SIR CHARLES HIGHAM.

Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, told a Newark, N. J., audience that the war was won "in spite of President Wilson" by a few army and navy officers who got America's forces together before war was declared. Former Governor Jonathan M. Davis, of Kansas, lost a preliminary tilt before his trial in connection with bribery charges when Judge J. A. McClure, at Topeka, refused to quash the indictment. William Green, as president of the American Federation of Labor, announced at Washington that he would carry out the policy of opposition to Soviet Russia which the late Samuel Gompers inaugurated. The United States is open to attack by the air Sir Charles Higham, noted advertising man, stated in a London address.

himself with a club and trade cautiously into the road to catch a fish with bare hands after he has stunned it with a blow.

Generous Sir Herbert

Sir Herbert Tree, the eminent English actor, was an original person with a curious and often surprising idea of wit. While walking up the Haymarket on one occasion, says the latter, he met a lady of his acquaintance. Sir Herbert swept off his hat with a flourish and, still holding it in his hand, stood talking to her for several minutes.

"What a magnificent thing your hat has," she said, gazing at the bright red silk.

"You admire that thing?" he cried in his most melodramatic manner, and with a swift wrench he tore it out and thrust it into her unwilling fingers.

"Madame, it is yours," he said imperiously. Then he walked majestically away, leaving the extended lady clutching a few scraps of red silk.

Reason for Name's Change

Whitaker was inspired James Abbott. The McCall (his mother's name) was added shortly after he entered West Point. There is not a cottage in the land where a student never gets a nickname. The initials of Whitaker's name (J. A. W.) combined with the self knowledge of his faculty of speech quickly suggested to him the use that would be made of them, and he instinctively shrank from the combination. The cadets had no access to the records, and before any could know his initials, Whitaker had changed himself with his mother's name McCall. The Abbott he always used for legal and official documents, but eventually he dropped it for all other purposes.

Snail Prevention of Rust

In discussing arrangements made in the direction of rust control, the Iron Age declares that the long-known remedy pictures the large quantities of life extension in the substitution of such material for that which crumbles and disappears under various conditions of service. Two obvious steps in the fight against rust are the direct and indirect method of supplying chromium. Patent compositions which involve all rusting elements are said to be holding up their development on a commercial basis.

Bachelor's Joy

"This may seem peculiar," said a bachelor, "but I haven't a single key among my possessions. I like to have a key to the lock on my suitcase to be broken. The janitor opens the office where I work, and, in fact, I have no occasion, during an entire day, to use a key of any description. And when I see some married man who is in business struggling to pick out the right key to fit some of his money holdings, I feel lucky. I really believe my bachelorhood is compensated in the fact that I don't have to go about carrying several pounds of keys."

New York, May 8.—An official New York down on the question of whether Paavo Nurmi's daily exercises would keep a buttonhole in the rest of his life or that the young man merely for the simple joy of exercise probably will be had this afternoon. It is expected to come during a hearing of the case by Fred Rubien at the National headquarters of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Middle Age Customs

Old Scandinavian custom, considered keys the badges of the lady of the house, who was said to be married to locks and keys. In the Middle Ages every housewife was expected to have two keys hanging from her girdle and, for the sake of the poor lady, we can only hope that they had shrunk, both in weight and size.

PHOTOPLAY OF INTEREST TO GOLF ENTHUSIASTS

A photoplay of interest to those interested in golf is being shown this week and next at the Auditorium Theatre. The picture was secured through the efforts of the S. Cohen's Sons' clothing store and although it is intended to show golf styles, it was made at the Western open championship tournament on the Calumet County Club links. Bill Melhorn, Chick Evans, Al Espinosa and other famous golfers star in it. In the film Lloyd Gullickson demonstrates driving form; Evans reveals the secret of his approach style and Melhorn contributes tips on putting.

"Chair-Widow"

The woman pictured above threw a new and confusing aspect into the already puzzling mystery of the electrocutions of the Diamond brothers with John Farina for the murder of two bank messengers in Brooklyn, when, in Buffalo, she made an affidavit to police declaring that she was the secret wife of Joe Diamond and that she had knowledge that the Diamond brothers were innocent of the crime for which they were executed. Fear of "Cheeks" Luciano, who made the weird confession that he perjured against the Diamonds for revenge, kept her silent before, she averred, adding that Luciano knows and can name the true murderer.

Hard to Get French to Leave Homeland

Vigorous attempts continue to be made by the colonial ministry to encourage French emigration to the colonies. But in spite of colonial expositions and a deluge of literature and motion pictures descriptive of life in those parts of the world where France has territorial possessions, few French people have been induced to leave their beloved homeland. The attachment of the French to their soil is, indeed, well known. They prefer making a mediocre living in their own country to prospects of wealth abroad. And not only is the average Frenchman loath to leave his country, but seldom does he abandon his native town or village. There are peasants whose families have been on the same farms or in the same districts for hundreds of years. A French writer has started investigating how long certain peasant families have been in the same place and has found some interesting examples. Thus in the village of Jeannet, in Burgundy, a farmer named Saclier has authentic records showing that the first Saclier began to till the soil of the farm in 1672 and it has been in his family ever since.

Disposal of "Dead Letters"

Letters and other mail matter which cannot for any reason be delivered are sent to the dead letter office. Where possible the dead letter office returns this mail to the senders. Otherwise the letters are destroyed. Valuable articles are kept for a certain length of time in the office. Some time ago the Post Office department sold at public auction a large number of such objects. Inquiries respecting lost mail should give the date when it was mailed and should be addressed to Division of Dead Letters, Post Office department, Washington. — Pathfinder Magazine.

Phillips Removed As Deputy Sheriff

Port Ewen Traffic Cop No Longer a Deputy Sheriff, but Still Remains Constable of Village—Seek to Have Traffic District There.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Phillips, traffic cop and constable of Port Ewen, is no longer a deputy sheriff, as he has been removed by Sheriff Wells. He is still constable of the village, however. For the past year there has been considerable controversy in that village which has centered around the activities of Phillips. Some of the residents believe that he has made a first class officer and has greatly assisted in checking reckless driving in the village. Some others believe that he has made too many arrests.

The town board held its regular meeting last Saturday and then adjourned to Tuesday evening to hear from a delegation from the Knights of Pythias, the Brotherhood Community Club and the Parent-Teacher Association. This delegation appeared before the board and urged the reappointment of Phillips as traffic officer.

After considerable discussion the board adjourned without taking action.

There are some in Port Ewen who desire to establish a traffic district, but there was no demand for it on the part of the delegation that waited on the board.

Affairs are "still up in the air" over in Port Ewen, but Constable Phillips is still acting in his official capacity as constable.

Those who oppose the proposed traffic district claim it is simply a means to get rid of Phillips as traffic officer and appoint another in that capacity.

It is expected that there will be further chapters in the story that is slowly being unfolded over there.

Five of the town board are Republicans and the sixth is a Democrat.

Puritan and Pilgrim Too Often Confused

I should like to call attention to a mistake which appeared in the Public Ledger of March 7. It was the confusion, or rather the mistaken identification, of "Pilgrims" and "Puritans." Even as well read and well educated a man as Theodore Roosevelt made this error and was corrected by Henry Cabot Lodge, writes Jane H. Farnham in the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Pilgrims settled Plymouth in 1620, while the Puritan migration did not take place until 1630, when the Bay colony was founded. No doubt both colonies were intolerant, according to our modern views, but the Puritans were stern in the extreme and banished such as differed with them in religious beliefs. Among those banished were Roger Williams, Anne Hutchinson and the Quakers.

The Pilgrim colony for fifty years at least did not restrict the votes to church members, as the Puritans did.

Perhaps this difference between Pilgrims and Puritans seems infinitesimal to Philadelphians, but it is rather important in New England.

PRUNE APPLE TREES IN WINTER MONTHS

The old bearing apple trees can be pruned most any time during the winter months when the weather is not too cold. Some folks prefer to wait till March, but most farmers will be thinking of other farm activities at that time.

Most of the essential tools for pruning are to be found in the chest or workroom of most farmers. A good pair of heavy shears or loppers is desirable. With these, limbs an inch and a half in diameter may be cut off more quickly than with a saw. A good saw with a swivel blade, or a long, narrow blade something like a keyhole saw, should be provided. This will enable the pruner to cut limbs that cannot be removed with the hand shears or "loppers."

The fruit that is formed on the old trees is nearly always on the outside or on the top. This is particularly true when the trees have been allowed to form a dense growth. On the interior of such trees, a large amount of dead twigs and branches will be found. The first thing for the pruner to do is to remove all dead or diseased branches. Even then it will be found that too many live branches remain. The tree should be opened by cutting out the smaller branches that grow close to each other. Avoid as far as possible cutting off large limbs.

Twenty-five per cent of the small branches can be cut without materially changing the shape of the tree. However, it rarely is desirable to remove more than this at one time. Unless there is some very good reason for so doing, large limbs near the bottom of a tree should not be removed. Those that rest on the ground when the tree carries a full load, can be relieved of a part of this difficulty by thinning out the small branches.

When large limbs have to be removed for any purpose, make the cuts as close to the point of union with the trunk as possible. When stubs are left, they soon decay and the decay spreads to the center of the tree. Wounds made by cutting off the larger branches should be covered with paint, made from white lead and raw linseed oil. It would be better still if a small amount of mercury bichloride were added to the paint.

If the old trees to be pruned have not been making sufficient growth of wood (five to six inches), it would be well to place a dressing of barnyard manure about them. If the manure is not to be had, then four to six pounds of nitrate of soda spread evenly about the tree will accomplish the same results.

How far one should go in the expenditure of time and money for fertilizers, depends on the variety and the interest the owner has in the trees. There are a lot of fine old trees that can easily be made highly productive by pruning, fertilizing and spraying. The entire cost of pruning, spraying and fertilizing would range from a dollar to a dollar and a half at most, per tree.

Progress Made in Work Against Camphor Scale

Distinct progress has been made by the bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture in the investigation of the biology and seasonal history of the camphor scale. Further observations on host plants of this insect indicate that it is a rather general feeder. Observations have been made on the effect of the cold weather during the winter of 1923-24 on this insect, when the thermometer reached about 19 degrees F. Considerable time has been spent in tracing shipments of nursery stock and other plants from the infested region which might have carried the pest. This work has been fairly thorough, and it appears that the scale has not become established at any new points.

Experiments in fumigation of the scale with hydrocyanic acid gas at various strengths and temperatures, necessary in the movement of nursery and florist stock in the New Orleans district, have been continued and results put in effect by local plant growers. Progress has been made in perfecting an oil spray suitable for camphor scale operations.

Light Must Percolate

The upper third of the tree should be far the thinnest part of the tree. Light must percolate through it to the lower two-thirds of the tree. The next or central third of the tree should be somewhat denser but thin enough to allow entry of sufficient light to the lowest third of the tree. This last third should be the densest part of the tree. The fruiting wood on this part of the tree is usually the least productive on account of heavy shade.

Where Apples Come From

Apples have come to us from various parts of the world. North America is the leading apple-growing country of the world although the apple originally came from southwestern Asia and the adjacent European territory. Of late years a few Russian varieties have been introduced for trial in some of the colder sections of the country. They have proved valuable on parents, giving Alexander, Wolf River, Rismark and many others of a good variety.

Runaway Girls In Binghamton

Cornelia Whipple of Kingston and Elizabeth Rickson of Saugerties Placed Under Probation in That City for One Year.

The Binghamton Sun of Wednesday morning gives the following account of the arrest of Cornelia Whipple of this city and Elizabeth Rickson of Saugerties, who were found in that city Tuesday night. The Sun's account follows:

Cornelia Whipple, 18, of Kingston, and Elizabeth Rickson of Saugerties were placed under probation to Madeline G. Hooton for one year by City Judge Rexford W. Titus after they pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy in city court this morning.

The two girls were arrested last night after their actions had been watched by police throughout the afternoon.

Railroad Officer George Scales first noticed the girls about the Lackawanna depot early yesterday afternoon. Another railroad official was informed of their presence and the sheriff's office notified. This was done in keeping with the police plan to keep all strange women loitering in the city under surveillance.

Men from the sheriff's office were dispatched to the scene and with the railroad officials kept their eyes on the girls. Presently a man with a large gray sedan drove up. He was seen to doff his hat to the girls and, approaching them started talking.

One of the girls then picked up her grip and got into the car with the man. The police followed the car out of the city and into a lonely side road. Seeing the other car approaching the man began turning the big sedan about, but the police stopped and took the girl from the car.

The man stated that he had hired the girl to work for him and was just taking a ride with her to explain some of the details of her position. He was allowed to go after his name had been taken and the license numbers of his car recorded.

The police then brought the girl back to the city where they visited the station and the other girl was picked up.

The two were then taken to the sheriff's office where they were questioned. They stated that they had been brought to this city in an automobile Sunday, leaving Kingston at 9 o'clock in the morning and arriving here at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. They rented a room, in Eldridge street for a week. One of the girls had $7 when they started while the other was without funds, they said.

The combined bankroll amounted to less than $2 after their rent for the week was paid but this money was later returned by the landlady when she learned of the girls' plight. Wires were sent to relatives of the two girls but no word has been received directly from them as yet. A wire sent to a Broadway restaurant in New York where one of the girls stated her sister worked was returned by the telegraph company, stating that the party could not be located.

These wires were sent out by Chief of Police William T. Hunt to whom the girls were turned over after being questioned at the sheriff's office. The girls will be turned over to Madeline G. Hooton and allowed to stay here if they are not sent for by relatives.

Oil Endangers
Motor Traffic

A very generous application of oil on the state highway from Port Ewen to Ulster Park has made that road almost impassable for motor traffic. The oil has been applied in such quantities that it stands in pools on the road and cars traveling at a snail's pace not only slip and slide over the roadway but the occupants are generously sprayed with oil. Gravel has been applied to the surface in a very small quantity, which only picks up and throws over passing machines and their occupants.

TREASURES IN INDIAN GRAVES

Plunder Taken From Panama's Old Cemeteries.

Perhaps the most interesting cemeteries in the world, those of an ancient Indian race of which little is known, are situated near Bugaba, Chiriqui, Panama. Formerly the graves covered a vast territory, but many have been opened and plundered.

In 1857 a Spaniard who was digging on his plantation in Panama unearthed a grave that contained some gold ornaments. He continued to dig and gathered a fortune before his secret became known. Then everyone began to hunt for gold and thousands upon thousands of graves were destroyed and countless priceless relics were broken and lost to archeologists.

An idea of the number of graves may be had from the account of Gen. Thomas F. Meagher, who crossed the isthmus from David to Bocas del Toro, 50 years ago. He writes: "A mile outside of Dolega the party stopped at the house of Robert Soles, the discoverer of the golden relics in the Indian graves of Chiriqui. All the way from David we had ridden through thousands of these ransacked graves, and in every direction for leagues and leagues... we might have seen tens of thousands more."

Between 1858 and 1868 thousands of pounds' worth of gold ornaments were shipped to the Bank of England and melted for bullion, and thousands of beautiful pottery vases were broken and covered the ground on the site of the graves. They were of many sizes, shapes and designs, some plain, and some fancifully decorated with quaint and grotesque human figures, some painted in patterns, and some molded in relief. A number had three legs that were hollow and contained little balls that rattled when the vessel was handled. In those vases gold ornaments were frequently found, and it is supposed that the loose balls in the legs were to scare away evil spirits. Few implements of stone are found in the graves, except a few celts, or grooved axes of stone, a few long knives, and once in a long while an arrow head. Fine metates, or mortars of stone, are sometimes found, carved in the shape of a jaguar or a frog or an armadillo. Stone molds in which some of the gold ornaments were made, and also goldsmith's tools of stone, found in the graves, show the people to have been far advanced in civilization.—Youth's Companion.

Bobbed Teachers Barred

School teachers in the state of Entre Rios, in northern Argentina, who have had their hair bobbed have been nervous during the last three months of the annual vacation for fear that their locks would not grow long enough to pass the inspection of the educational authorities, who have decreed that there shall be no more short-haired teachers. The teachers regard this edict seriously, for positions for women in Entre Rios are not too numerous. The authorities have made no ruling regarding the right of the pupils to wear their locks as they desire, but they hold that they have authority over teachers and principals and that those whose hair is in the prevailing fashion when the schools resumed their sessions need not expect employment.

Light Transmission

A new kind of glass, of organic origin, which is reported to permit the passage of ultraviolet light, has recently been perfected by two Austrian scientists, Herr Pollak and Herr Ripper. The new glass is called polipops, and it is made by a chemical condensation of urea with formaldehyde. Polipops is considerably lighter than ordinary glass, weighing about one and one-half times as much as an equal volume of water, while common glass often has triple this weight. It is quite soft, being somewhat softer than mother of pearl, and is easily abraded. It is very transparent.—Science Service.

Too Late

A wild-haired, morbid young man was raving about the emptiness of life. "The sooner the world ends the better," he said. "We all ought to be annihilated."

"My dear fellow," his friend replied, "the world's packed with interesting things. They've just discovered that human life began on this earth about a million years ago—and you talk of wiping us all out."

"A million years ago?"

"The papers are full of it."

"Oh, well," said the morbid man, miserably. "It's too late to do anything about it, then."

School Luxury in China

Many Chinese schools have failed to open this year and others have been greatly hampered in their work by the disturbances in the country and lack of funds. Skins Used by Swedes
Since Sixth Century

In Sweden all running is at least fourteen centuries old, and probably dates back to prehistoric times, according to Prof. Otto von Friesen, of the University of Uppsala. A runestone at Boeksa, not far from Uppsala, shows a picture of a sled runner, and it is probable that long before they knew how to write the Swedes learned the art of skiing from the nomadic Lapps and Finns. Professor Friesen says that in the Sixth century southern European writers described hunters in Sweden who were able to glide through the forest at high speed. The runestone, which dates from the middle of the Eleventh century, proves that sled running was then common in Sweden.

In the Viking age this was in frequent use. Winter sports had a special divinity, Ull, who was himself devoted to the use of skin. Outwardly he was the symbol of the bright, sunny winter day that stimulates to outdoor life and warlike games. Roads being rare, the skins furnished means of communication, no matter how severe the winter, and speed on them was highly esteemed.

Ancient French Title

The title "dauphin" was borne by the heir-apparent to the crown of France, under the Valois and Bourbon dynasties. In 1348, Humbert II, the last of the princes of Dauphine, having no issue, left his domains to Philip of Valois, King of France, on condition that the king's eldest son be called the dauphin.

The first dauphin was Jean, afterwards John the Good, and the last the Duc d'Angoulême, son of Charles X, who renounced the title in 1830. It is said that Guy VIII, an ancestor of Humbert II, was surnamed Le Dauphin, because he wore a dolphin as an emblem on his helmet or shield. This surname remained to his descendants, who were styled Dauphins, and the country they governed was called Dauphinie. The wife of the dauphin was called the dauphine.—Kansas City Star.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, May 8.—Though not as aggressive as in the last two days, speculative stocks continued their advance today. The railroad stocks wrested control of the market from the utilities while that group was under prompt taking, the principal action being in the stocks of the so-called weak lines which are likely to be taken over and added to the stronger systems in various mergers under contemplation.
A number of the industrial and specialty stocks staged a strong rally, the most prominent being the advance in American Sumatra Tobacco Preferred, which recovered to 41, against yesterday's low price at 23.
With most of the utility stocks showing a reactionary trend, Montana Power surged ahead to a new high at 86, completing a gain of about 17 points for the week.
Rock Island at the head of the speculative rally, reached 48 on the movement. Southern Railroad and Baltimore and Ohio led the investment rally.
Good buying prevailed in the motor stocks. Large blocks of Willys-Overland Common came out at the highest prices since 1920. Hudson, Maxwell A. General Motors and the Pierce Arrows made new top prices for the movement. The mercantile stocks were not so active, but prices were well maintained.
Week end call money rates declined to 3 1/2 per cent. Commodity prices were irregular, with sugar scraping bottom and crude rubber at the highest price in five years.

We summarize from the letter of Mr. George W. Gittins, President of the Corporation, dated April 22nd as follows:
HISTORY AND BUSINESS: Estey-Welte Corporation, incorporated in July, 1922, under the laws of the State of New York, owns the entire capitalization of the Estey Piano Company, established in 1869, the Welte-Mignon Corporation, established originally in Europe in 1832, and subsequently in America in 1865, the Estey Company of Philadelphia, established in 1874, and the Welte-Mignon Studios, Inc., of the City of New York, established in 1908. Co-incident with this financing, the Corporation will acquire a majority of the stock in the Hall Organ Company of West Haven, Conn. The Hall Organ Company was established in 1898 and has been in continuous successful operation since that date. NO REPRODUCING PIANO IS MANUFACTURED IN AMERICA, EXCEPT UNDER ROYALTY AGREEMENTS IN FAVOR OF THE WELTE-MIGNON CORPORATION.
PLANTS: The properties owned by the subsidiary companies of the Estey-Welte Corporation are extensive, well-located and modern in every respect. Estey Piano Company operates one of the largest and best equipped plants in the industry, located at 112-124 Lincoln Avenue, New York City, and the Welte-Mignon Corporation owns and operates a modern factory at 297-307 E. 133rd Street, New York City, with a combined floor space in excess of 150,000 square feet. The Hall Organ Company owns and operates a complete and modern factory for the manufacture of Pipe Organs, at West Haven, Conn., which will have, after completion of present contemplated extensions, a floor space of 50,000 square feet. In addition to these plants the Corporation operates a large retail establishment in Philadelphia, occupying the larger part of a seven-story building at Seventeenth and Walnut Streets, and Studios on Fifth Avenue at Fifty-third Street, New York City.

These assets are exclusive of very valuable good will and world-famous trade-marks and copyrights.

The additional working capital provided by this financing should reflect itself in a substantial increase in earnings over 1924.

Ottinger Issues
"Dry" Statement

Attorney General Agrees With Lowman That Local Officials Can Not Enforce Volstead Law—Says
Smith Is Talking Through His Hat.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., May 8.—Governor Smith was characterized "as the happy warrior talking through his hat again," so far as prohibition is concerned by Attorney General Ottinger in a statement today.

Ottinger issued the statement because of the divergence in views of Governor Smith and Acting Governor Lowman over the enforcement of the Volstead act by local officers.

Governor Smith said recently that local officials have the right to enforce the prohibition law. Lowman said district attorneys and county grand juries have no jurisdiction over crimes involving violation of the Volstead act. Ottinger agreed with Lowman.

"It is perfectly true," said the Ottinger statement, "that the Volstead act is the law of the land. It also is true that the federal constitutional amendment is not self-enforcing.

That amendment provided that congress and states shall have concurent power to enforce the article by appropriate legislation. In order to prosecute and judge in the state courts it is necessary to have state legislation.

"The various local authorities, however, have the right to arrest for violations of the Volstead law and magistrates have the power to issue warrants for arrests for such violations. The trial of these individuals must be conducted in federal courts because we have no state legislation which gives us 'concurrent power.'"
"The happy warrior is talking through his helmet again."

First Trace of Chapman Lost

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 8.—The first trace of any of the bonds stolen by Gerald Chapman, notorious jail breaker, in his million dollar mail truck robbery here two years ago, was obtained by police today with the arrest of John J. Philan on a charge of grand larceny.

Five thousand dollars in bonds, which police say was part of the Chapman loot, were used by Philan, according to the charge, to bind a really safe involving $10,300. The remainder of the bonds, $5,300, put up by Philan, police say, represented loot obtained from the robbery of the Wilton Trust Company at Wilton, Mass.

Philan refused to make any statement in connection with the bonds.

MODERN TREND IS ALL FOR SHORTNESSAbbreviation Seems the Order of the Day.

Longer days mean "shorter" women. For there is an epidemic of abbreviation abroad.

Women have shortened their hair, their skirts, their sleeves, in fact everything that could be shortened in their modes.

Their manners have been subjected to the same process. Engagements are shorter and marriages also.

Social life is a succession of brief functions. Dinner is the merest snapshot before a short dance in one place and a short drive to the next. Petrie Townsend writes in the continental edition of the London Mail.

"Life is short and art cannot be long," is the modern woman's motto.
She will not look at a picture unless its effect is obvious and can be seized in a glance. She prefers short to long stories, and even her novels are arrangements of epigrams. Her letters are reduced to brief notes.

Absence of brevity means presence of boredom to women, who prefer even their proposals to be made by telephone. It is quicker to cut off a rejected suitor than to dismiss him.

There is also an idea abroad just now that quickness means slowness.
The short meal means the perfect figure and the short skirt enables plenty of strenuous exercise to be taken even in London. Even stockings are turning into socks for the tennis player, and gloves must end at the wrist.

Short hair means a short way with maids and a quick dressing time.

If brevity is the soul of wit the shortened dinner table of today (it is rarely made to seat more than eight persons) should scintillate with sparkling conversation. Modern women's remarks, however, are so short that they tend to be monosyllabic. It is the fashion to omit all pronouns and as many verbs as possible and to rely on allusion for the rest.

Conversation is carried on in a society cipher and those who hold the key do not appear to find the expanded form particularly enlightening. Still, shorter small talk is probably a boon.

Shorter engagements mean more marriages. The finding-out process takes a little longer than the conventional six weeks, which is all that can elapse between the curt circular notification and the wedding day.

With every occupation cut short, the hours should be long, but the most frequent complaint of the modern woman is that she is so terribly busy:
"The days are so short!"

Dyes Make Rugs Famous

Chinese rugs lay their claim to fame mostly at the feet of the skilled dyes, who impart the remarkable colorings, especially the blues, to these rugs. A Chinese rug weaver can complete only about half a square foot of rug a day, which lasts from daylight to dark. Much of the work is done by apprentices, who are paid nothing.
When they have served their apprenticeship their wage may be as low as 50 cents a day at the start, or $20 a month, which is the maximum ever paid.

"Limited" in Firm Name

The word "limited" refers to the liability of the shareholders in the firm.
The liability of each stockholder is such a company is limited to the amount of his stock or shares, or to an amount fixed by a guarantee. A law in England provides that, with some exceptions, such firms shall have "limited" as the last word in the name of the company. For instance, "The Scott Stamp and Coin Co., Ltd."—Pathfinder Magazine.

'Quakes Rock

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Manila, May 8.—The southern portion of the Philippine Islands continued to be rocked today and last night by earthquakes. Considerable damage has been done, partially wrecked buildings and homes having been reported from many localities.

The quakes were reported as originating in the Pacific ocean.

In Negros province, residents have fled to the forests, fearing a repetition of Tuesday's severe shocks, which opened cracks in the streets in the town of Bais. At two spots black sulphur like mud was thrown four feet in the air, striking terror in the hearts of the residents.

The church at Tanjay has crumbled and many cement buildings as well as homes have been damaged.

STOCKHOLDERS HALT
VAN SWERINGEN PLANS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 8.—Minority stockholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad threw a bomb today into the Van Sweringen merger plans when they asked the interstate commerce commission to require O. P.
and M. J. Van Sweringen, Otto Miller, J. J. Berner, J. R. Nutt, C. L.
Bradley and W. A. Colson to show cause why orders of the commission permitting them to serve as members of the board of directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio and Hocking Valley railroads should not be annulled.

SENT TO JURY

The action brought by Henry E.
Rodgers of this city against the firm of Rose-Gorman-Rose for $8,000 damages for personal injuries sustained when a truck of the firm collided with Mr. Rodgers near the corner of Broadway and Elmendorf morning. The case was summed up and submitted to the jury at noon.

World's Deepest Rivers

In Canada, a section of the Upper Ottawa river is believed to be from 6,000 to 7,000 feet deep, north of Pembroke, Ont. This is considered by far the deepest river in the world. Another Canadian river, the Saguenay, is from 100 to 2,000 feet deep. Few rivers are more than 100 feet in depth. The Mississippi rises to 60 to 100 feet at flood.
The Amazon in its lower course is about 180 feet deep.

Diana Comes Down to Earth

WORKMEN LOWERING SAINT GAUDENS' FAMOUS STATUE OF DIANA

The lowering of Saint-Gaudens' famous statue of Diana, that has for thirty years stood atop the tower of Stanford White's architectural gem, Madison Square Garden, famous for boxing bouts, conventions and discusses, brought wistful memories to the eyes of a crowd of old-timers who watched the proceedings reverently from Madison Square. Diana will not be lost, however, as New York University will re-erect the famous tower with the statue above it on the campus. Photo shows the statue as it started its descent, with New York's skyline in the background.

WOMEN DISCUSS BIRTH CONTROL AND DIVORCE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 8.—Birth control and divorce today were termed "the two greatest problems facing the world" by foreign delegates to the convention of the International Council of Women here.
Religion and the education of children to regard marriage and the rearing of families as solemn duties were the subjects of the day's discussion.

offered as solutions of the "problems." Divorce is particularly a problem for the United States, these delegates declared.

Mrs. George Morgan, of Great Britain, declaring both problems were the price the world must pay for its civilization, advocated less divorce and modified birth control.

sisting that she was the common law wife of Joseph Diamond, rethe Buffalo police today served

French Press Is Greatly Incensed

Speech of Ambassador Houghton on America's Future, European Policy—Sharp Criticism on Activities in New World.

Paris, May 8.—The sharpest criticism of the United States since the World War, was printed by Paris newspapers today in commenting on the address of United States Ambassador Houghton in London two nights ago. Houghton warned Europe it must stop its quarrelling or America would without financial and moral aid in the rebuilding of stricken nations.

"St. Brice" in the Paris Journal said: "Houghton's speech was a re-echo of the naive pharisaism of the Wilsonian era. Why does America preach reconciliation in the old world while she prepares for a war with the Japanese in the new world?"

The government newspaper, Ere Nouvelle, said: "Houghton's speech was ancient history. Former Senator McCormick professed a similar doctrine. After all, experience clearly shows that 'isolation' is impossible. Washington cannot now disinterest itself in old world difficulties. The preachers are in the new world and these who pray are in the old."

"Houghton's speech received unanimous attention from the French press—unanimous regret and unanimous irritation. The United States would be more popular if they would preach less. The United States is not as wise as they think, yet it is wiser than it appears. But even if America is supremely wise, it is ridiculous to display wisdom insolently."

"Wilson's idealism brought to America a sense of gold. The Americans sleep on gold in chasing this idealism, but the idealism is only for exportation not for internal consumption."

WHEN YOU ARE IN A "DRESS-UP" MOOD.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Who says all gowns are simple, or that all costumes, to be approved, must needs subscribe to the masculine? There is also a wider choice than the alternative between a straightline dress and a circular one. This is provided by the barrel silhouette and by other deviations from the usual chemise genre. There seems little reason why all sorts and sizes of women should select the same type. Since there is a style for everyone, and for every occasion, just as there is a color.

When the fabric serves as trim.

Gray, periwinkle, and all shades of blue, and blonde tones, both de rose and almost creamy are among the colors one counts upon as being represented in the right places. To be sure, there are women who have the courage to wear bright red or purple, but the softer and more neutral tones make a wider appeal.

Though combinations are obvious enough to harmonize with practicality any color which may be in favor, generally speaking, the woman who wears pale almost green is not at home in vivid reds and purples.

The frock sketched in gray, unadorned, and worn with gray footwear, which seems to be becoming more general. Some of the smartest gowns introduced a contrasting color in their turnover fastenings, and one may always have a gray handkerchief.

Kiwanis Club Hears of Music

The Kiwanis Club observed Music Week at its weekly luncheon held Thursday. W. W. Fredenburgh of the music committee of the club gave a brief talk regarding the observance of the week. Mr. Fredenburgh spoke as follows:

This is the sixth successive year that music week has been observed in this section of the country. Its observance takes different forms but its fundamental idea is to interest and develop a desire among the people for music of the higher type.

This can be done by having music to which they listen or sing or play conform to this type. What can we do along this line here in Kingston? I have one or two suggestions.

Band concerts are contemplated in our parks this summer. It would be good to request our board of public works to appoint a committee to supervise the programs for these concerts whoever might be the bandmaster. To the end that each program should have at least two good standard semi-classical numbers instead of all jazz and fox trots.

All you men belong or go to some church sometime. Take an interest in the music in these churches. Encourage every effort to improve and build up to a higher plane the musical portions of these services, being slow to criticize. For I am sure that every one responsible for these services is doing the best he or she can with the limited resources at their command.

Master John Lox, boy soprano, sang two songs. Harry Lazarus also sang. Paul Zucca, assisted by Charles Whitaker, Russell Dana and Miss Farrell, gave a very appropriate program.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TO PRESENT COMEDY

"At the Restful Hour Inn," is the title of the comedy which the Local Union of Christian Endeavor is to present on the evenings of May 15th and 20th. It is one of Erasmus Osgood's most amusing farce-comedies. Prof. Gunn is compelled to take charge of a tea room, backed in his venture by his brother-in-law Gregory Blunt, a hard headed business man. Mr. Blunt engages from the city three young women to act as waitresses. Their former experience has been along the lines of movie actresses and the fun they create is fast and furious. An Irish-American Miss Honora Dempsey appears on the scene, and is secured to act as super-intendent and makes an emphatic success. A pretty romance runs through the play, which involves a young doctor and the mysterious Nellie Thornton.

WAWARISING.
Wawarsing, May 7.—There was a Home Bureau meeting at the home of Mrs. Asa Gray, May 1. The hats that were made by the millinery class were worn by Miss Fisher and shown for work for the coming year were discussed.

The Sunshine Society will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Hector Osterhout of Kerhonkson.

There will be an entertainment by the Wawarsing Church Thursday evening at 7:30, standard time, under the auspices of the Sun-

Solomon's Wise Rule

Under the reign of Solomon Israel developed into a commercial nation. Foreign alliances which he made formed the basis of trading relations abroad. He joined in maritime commerce with the Phoenicians, and once in three years sent a fleet from his port at the head of the gulf of Akaba to trade with Obil, presumably on the eastern coast of Arabia, and places on the way. These expeditions brought back gold and oriental riches and vastly expanded the royal coffers.

Working Machines Popular

In the olden days the family laundry was done at the stony edge of a babbling brook.

Later, hardware stores brought the brook to the home through sales of pipe and pump, and furnished a washboard and tub to do the laundry with.

In the last two years, we learn from Good Hardware, American homes have been supplied with over $10,000,000 worth of electric washing machines.

The hardware store was the third greatest distributor of these machines.

Tagging Major League Bases

Going into the ninth inning five runs to the bad, the Giant attack broke loose with the fury of a woman scorned, drove in runs and beat the Phillies, 11 to 8. Ring, Decatur and Couch were driven from the premises by the bombardment, the feature of which was Wilson's pinch homer with two on.

Glenn Wright took his place with Neal Ball and Bill Wambagans by getting the Cardinals in the ninth with an unassisted triple play. He clutched Bottomley's liner, touched second, doubling Coney, and tagged Hornsby coming to the bag. And still the Pirates contrived to lose, 10 to 9.

Sister hit safely in his twenty second consecutive game, getting three for good measure, as his Browns took a full out of the Tigers, 6 to 5.

Successful drop kicks by Johnson and Mitchell and indifferent pitching by Thormsien staked the Braves to a 7 to 3 decision of the Dodgers, Coney being parsimonious in the pinches.

The Indians edged back into a triple tie for first place by beating the White Sox, 7 to 5, in spite of the fact that Smith's left hand yielded 14 hits.

SIXTEEN ENTRIES IN $50,000 PREAKNESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Baltimore, Md., May 8.—Sixteen three-year olds, the ultimate in thoroughbred development, will go to the post this afternoon in the eighteenth running of the $50,000 Preakness at the Pimlico track, second only to the Kentucky Derby in point of importance. The race will be at one mile and three sixteenths, an eighth of a mile longer than in previous years.

The early weather was clear, and the track fast and with Baltimore's surest fairly over run with visitors, the track's capacity of 30,000 was likely to be more than strained.

Some hours before the race, the Greentree-Whitney stable entry of Chantley and Backbone, was rated the favorite, largely because of Chantley's impressive running here in Maryland. The half brother of Enchantment didn't race as a 2 year old but recently broke the track record for a mile at Harvard de Grace. His price today is likely to go as low as 2 to 1.

Pirate Stars Remove

Tonsils and Improve

Poor tonsils have been blamed for all sorts of things—but if they were a handicap to three members of the Pittsburgh Pirates, watch for some big records this year.

Three of the regulars reported minus tonsils as a result of operations during the winter. And none was slow last season, either.

"Pie" Traynor, one of the three, is back heavier and stronger. He hit 298, stole 24 bases and was third high among the regular third basemen of both leagues in fielding.

Johnny Gooch, catcher, had one of his best years last year, and starts 1925 minus tonsils.

Ditto for Glenn Wright, shortstop, who made good in his first year in major baseball.

COLLINS IS SIXTH PILOT AND PLAYER

Sox Manager Directs Team Play From Keystone Sack.

Eddie Collins, veteran infielder of the White Sox, started his first season as a major league manager when the curtain rose on the 1925 season.

He will take his place alongside of Sleser, Harris, Bancroft, Speaker and Cobb as a playing manager, directing his team from his keystone position in the infield.

To Collins falls the assignment of welding together a team that has not yet fully recovered from the effects of the disastrous standstill of 1919, when the White Sox ranks were rent by the contaminating influence of big gamblers. His task is a gigantic one, an acid test for a personality of the caliber of Collins.

Previously Collins had turned deaf ears to all overtures made to elevate him to a managerial role, but with the death of Frank Chance and the retirement of Johnny Evers, Collins consented to accept the task wholly as an experiment, to see whether the managerial duties would interfere with his ability as a player.

The White Sox was the only team in the big leagues to start the season with a new guiding hand. Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, really had his first taste of big-league piloting last season when he assumed charge of the Reds upon the death of Pat Moran when the Reds were undergoing their training activities under southern skies.
